Local Draft Boards To Be Powerful In Selection Of Men

Washington Officials Will Act Only In Advisory Capacity

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Draft headquarters published official regulations signed by President Roosevelt to govern classification of 16,404,000 expected registrants for military training under the nation's first peacetime conscription.

The regulations were termed by draft officials "the most important rules to be issued in preparation for mobilization of United States manpower."

The draft's high command pronounced two outstanding principles in a preamble statement of policy. That the entire classification process will be completed without partiality or political influence; and that preservation of the American family as a nationally important unit will be recognized and guaranteed.

Main Classifications

Status of all registrants as to availability for service and rights to deferment, will be calculated according to four main classifications, containing 13 sub-classifications, and will depend upon family and occupational circumstances, and physical, mental and moral fitness.

The compilation of rules, crux of the system, comprises volume three of the selective service regulations which ultimately will fill six volumes. The first two, covering organization and registration, were signed previously by the President.

Sub-classifications are divided into four main groups: 1—Available for service; 2—Deferred because of occupational status; 3—Deferred because of dependents; and 4—Deferred specially by law or because unfit for military service.

Dr. Frederick Osburn, chairman of President Roosevelt's advisory committee on conscription, said the rules were "a very brief, brief, and far more general in character than had been anticipated." No hard and fast rules can operate in the draft he said, and "no ironclad rule can be laid down for a nation the size of ours."

Far-reaching decisions were placed, therefore, in the hands of local boards, which will determine deferments upon the individual merits of each case, guided by the general rules promulgated Monday. Draft headquarters is striving to make selection a local community problem, and to decentralize it to the point where Washington officials will act only in advisory and supervisory capacities, was explained.

The preamble to the "rules laid down this general administration to local draft boards:

"The entire administration of the selective service law shall be impartial and free from any political influences. There shall be no favoritism or discrimination on account of race, color, or because of his membership or activity in any labor, political, religious or other organization."

Regarding dependency, reflected in inquiries as the subject of most widespread interest, the rules stated:

"The local board should determine in such questions with sympathetic regard for the registrant and his dependents. Any reasonable doubts in connection with dependency should be resolved in favor of deferment, and in doubtful cases the board should be satisfied or informed that the registrant is expected to result from separating a father from his children or a husband from his wife."

Spessard Holland Says We Must Prepare For Inevitable Conflict With "The Dictator Nations"

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 10.—Spessard L. Holland, Democratic governor nominee of Florida, speaking to 500 guests at a joint civic club luncheon here said that Americans must prepare for "an inevitable conflict with the dictator nations" and that Florida has a greater opportunity than any other state to aid this defense program.

This state, he continued, because of its nearness to Latin America, already is fast becoming a great military base. Holland said, "But it can also help by working to improve cultural and trade relations with Central and South America."

He called off an impressive list of army and navy air bases, defense projects and other details being built from Pensacola to Key West.

Men Fight For Their Ideals

(A Story Written By Jack Koford in Miami Daily News)

Next week the young manhood of the United States will register for universal service. More than 16,000,000 of them. Within a year some 400,000 will be transformed from civilians into trained soldiers.

In the succeeding years hundreds of thousands of others will go through that same training. Americans have the habit of taking the lead in whatever they attempt. We have started late in this business of manufacturing an army, but if we take time to think of it, we are going to have the finest in the world.

No other country can make better, or more, planes, tanks, ships, or shells. We have the material equipment, and a tremendous reservoir of manpower, from which to draw our fighting forces. But those things aren't enough. There is one asset more important than any of the other. It does not come from the material or the physical, but from the soul.

An army is no better than the spirit of the men who make it. It is born of the love of his country, and a willingness to sacrifice everything for that country. Say what you will about the Germans, they have such a spirit. It was the motivating power behind the planes and the tanks that dropped at several hours at night flying lightning bolts through the demoralized countries of the continent.

Those men were willing to fight and suffer and die for an ideal. We conceive that ideal to be wrong, but it was a lamp burning in the night to German men in the air, on the ground, and under the sea.

Without that spirit, even the most advanced of the Nazi forces would not have achieved the results that startled the world. At the beginning of the war, Great Britain was left to spirit men and women went about their business as usual. Only England was left to a sunny Sunday, good, read the "All Quiet" communique with a chuckle. They took things for granted, as we have been doing. Then, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France collapsed like a fall kicked over by a careless foot. Only England was left to face the thunderbolt from beyond the Rhine. Death came drowning in through the skies over England. And in the rubble of blasted homes, the English found the spirit the Germans had from the beginning.

Each tortured day, and terrible night, faced and solidified a new spirit. Nothing is likely to break it now.

You have a job. You have things in getting up at dawn and you are to do. There isn't any going through a rigorous course of training until dark. You'll miss the delicacies of the table, and soil inside, sometimes, at brusque like ours.

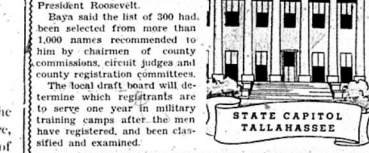

300 Names Of Floridians To Be Selected For Draft Boards Are Sent Cone At Capitol Building

It is in this historic old capitol building in Tallahassee that Governor Fred P. Cone will receive a list of 300 names from H. P. Bays, state director of selective service for Florida, who will be nominated for membership on local draft boards.

There will be about 100 local boards in Florida and each will have three members. Governor Cone will nominate the board members for appointment by President Roosevelt.

Bays said the list of 300 had been selected from more than 1,000 names recommended to him by chairman of county committees, and by members of county registration committees.

The local draft board will determine which registrants are to serve one year in military training camps after the men have registered, and been classified and examined.

WPA Workers To Be Given Time Off For Registration

Schroder Says Pay Will Go On While Workers Go To Register

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 10.—State Administrator Roy Schroder today ordered fullest possible cooperation by the Florida WPA in the registration of all eligible male workers Oct. 16 under the selective training and service act.

He announced that men within the age limit prescribed—21 to 35—who are employed on Oct. 16 in any capacity by the WPA, who are paid with funds of the administration transferred to other Federal agencies, will be paid for the day or the portion required for registration.

This will apply, he explained, to high project workers and administrative employees.

"It will only be necessary that such persons present registration certificates issued by the local boards as evidence of registration," the administrator said.

Robert A. Cochran, WPA's state statistician, said there are now about 23,760 males assigned to WPA projects in Florida.

One year ago today I wrote the following paragraph in this column:

"Over in Lee county on the West Coast" the county school board has suspended a pupil who would not salute the American flag. I don't believe any person is entitled to the splendid public school system of America if they can't see their way to salute Old Glory. Old Glory symbolizes something really worthwhile in the minds and hearts of the American school child—and grown-up. Whoever he may be—if he doesn't like the color of the stars and stripes and if he can't bring himself to salute the greatest and grandest flag in the world, I see no reason why he should be in the schools of our nation. I believe the same thing today—only stronger than ever."

Wednesday, October 16.—Registration Day!

Congratulations to Band Director Robert Lamps and the youngsters in the school band. They're doing a dandy job.

The first beans of the new 1940-41 season brought $1.50 per hamper. Glades farmers would be pleased if they knew they'd get that much for every hamper to be harvested this season.

Next Wednesday, October 16, will go down in American history as an eventful day. It will bring the first peace-time registration of men for duty in our armed services in the history of the United States.

Glades citizens are to be congratulated for the manner in which they readily volunteered their services to assist in the registration of men between 21 and 35. County Chairman James M. Owens is more than pleased with the splendid response in the Glades.

Our Blue Devils go up against Dunbar tonight in the third home game. With the tie and one loss charged up against them, the Hobson-coached aggregation will be doing everything possible to break into the win column tonight.

Punta Gorda Team Trims Devils 19-13

There was a smooth working Punta Gorda Eleven that took Hobson's Blue Devils into camp last Friday night before a large crowd on Laird field. The final score was 19 to 13 and every Glades supporter of the Devils seemed happy with the outcome. At the half the score stood 12 to nothing in favor of the boys from Charlotte county.

Soon after the kick-off in the third quarter one of the visiting gridiron scampers 75 yards down the side of the field for another marker, which put Punta Gorda out in front 19 to 3.

It was after the third touchdown by the visitors that the local lads finally got started. They scored 13 points and held twice when the Punta Gorda team was knocking on their goal line for another score. The visiting team's third chalk up 10 first downs while the locals made only four. The visitors outgained the Blue Devils, 129 to 76, from scrimmage. Seven out of nine Punta Gorda passes were completed.

"The Social Aspects of the National Defense Program" was the topic for discussion at the luncheon meeting of the Pahokee Lions Club Tuesday.

It was the consensus of opinion that the government's policy of building modern camps for military workers, establishing CCC camps, providing work for the unemployed through the WPA and similar efforts to increase the standard of living of the lower income groups was proving an invaluable asset in the defense program because it had prevented social unrest and improved the general health and unity of the people.

The October issue of the Progressive Farmer carries an interesting feature article on Florida, written by J. Francis Cooper, editorial director of the Florida Experiment Station.

Entitled "New Crops for Florida," the article tells of the progress being made with such crops as Sea Island cotton, lemongrass, paprika, improved sweet potatoes and other crops.

Florida is getting back into the production of Sea Island cotton in a big way and shows a 30 percent increase this year over last, with over 12,500 and 15,000 acres in this profitable crop.

While Madison, Lake, Columbia and Marion hold in its production, 22 other counties are now growing the big staple, which is exempt from cotton quota restrictions.

Governor Clegg, Commissioner Nathan Mayo, and William L. Williams, Director of State Forestry, have done much to promote the growing of this promising and profitable crop and indicate that the National Defense program will give further impetus to the end that Florida will eventually become a leader in the production of Sea Island cotton.

Florida growers have a distinct advantage in that they can keep their seed pure where most other states cannot avoid mixing. Weevil control, of course, is necessary, but the State Department of Agriculture, WPA and county agents have been cooperating with growers in a control effort that is proving successful.

The demand for Sea Island cotton is steadily increasing. Recently Florida was called upon to supply a considerable quantity for use in the construction of the new Flying Fortress for the Army and Navy, now being built on the Pacific Coast.

Here in Florida a concern in Jacksonville is now manufacturing stockings from Sea Island cotton that closely resemble silk but possess the advantage of being

by Fuller Warren

ANSWERING THE TWADDLE ABOUT A THIRD TERM

A lot of hoarse, horrendous howling against a Third Term is being heard in the land. This raucous raving against a Third Term comes "di-ty" from four sources: (1) the tired howlers of the Republican Party; (2) the ex-members of the defunct Labor League; (3) a bunch of blatant, belittling demagogues; and (4) a few honest citizens who are conscientiously opposed to a Third Term.

These groups usually claim to be opposed to a Third Term for two reasons. First, they say George Washington was opposed to it; and second, they say a Third Term would cause a depression. If any other reason has been offered, I haven't heard of it.

Let's see if either of these so-called reasons will hold water. As a member of the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia, in 1787, the reverend Washington would have made it possible for a president to enjoy office for fourteen years. A Third Term would permit a president to serve only twelve years. So, it is quite evident that Washington was not opposed to a Third Term.

Furthermore, in 1789, Washington wrote to Lafayette: "I can see no propriety in precluding ourselves from the services of any man who, in some emergency, shall be deemed universally most capable of serving the public."

So, I hope we won't have to hear any more about Washington being against a Third Term. He wasn't, and no amount of fuming and fussing can change his position.

The "dangers of a dictatorship" has been mentioned so much that it has become a sort of catch-phrase or byword. It is used most often by those far-winded financial Pharisees who, under the banner of the mis-named Liberty League, have sought to restrict the power from Rooseveltian "ruin." That bunch of business buccaners didn't make much headway operating under the guise of the Liberty League, so they dropped that label a few years ago. They are now back at the old stand, doing business as Republicans, as they ever were—though for a brief season they called themselves Liberty Leaguers.

These patriots for profit are mad only because they haven't been able to make the profit since March 1933. They have been compelled to turn a part of their profit back to the government that gave them the protection and security that enabled them to amass their great fortunes. They have also been required to pay their employees a living wage. Furthermore, they have been required to reduce the hours of work of their employees so they can have a little time off for rest and recreation.

They're mad because the government has curbed and restricted their dictatorial powers over their helpless employees. Yes, these morose millionaires are very mad because the government has curbed their dictatorial powers.

With fine inconsistency they are now shouting about the "dangers of a dictatorship" if the United States is to have four more years of the government that has done so much to destroy their highly profitable dictatorship over their underpaid and over-worked employees.

Nearly every issue of the newspapers carries a billious blast from some of these thwarted tyrants about the danger of a dictatorship if President Roosevelt is elected to a third term. They are either utterly ignorant of the issue in which dictatorships develop, or they are deliberately trying to deceive the people.

Every citizen of every dictatorship that now curses the world shows that no man ever became a dictator by being elected by the people. The office, then, then declining to become a dictator, President Vargas of Brazil is the only possible exception, and his dictatorship was not strictly a dictatorship. All other dictators have gained their power by means other than being elected by the people. Hitler, Stalin and Franco became dictators by armed force; neither was ever elected by the vote of the people to any office. Stalin became a dictator by murdering, poisoning and trickery; he never gained any office by the vote of the people. And Hitler became a dictator by arson (burning the Reichstag) and assorted intrigue—such as deceiving half-blind old von Hindenburg.

P-T-A In Pahokee Has Meeting

Plans for the annual membership drive were announced at the first meeting of the Pahokee Parent Teachers Association in the school auditorium Monday night.

Frank Roselle, membership chairman, appointed Mrs. R. J. Schroder, Mrs. G. E. Ramey and Mrs. Ernest Ramey as captains of the P-T-A teams which are to conduct the drive.

In the executive committee report, which was approved by the group, Mrs. C. A. Shive, cafeteria supervisor, reported a net profit of $227.57 from the school cafeteria last year. Mrs. Shive asked for and received $100 for operating expenses at the cafeteria during the first month of school, plus a small sum to purchase necessary equipment. The treasurer, Mrs. G. M. Bell, was authorized to pay a bill of $29.05 for painting cafeteria tables and benches.

It was announced that 31 underprivileged children received free lunches at the cafeteria last year. Mrs. O. E. Blech, newly appointed welfare chairman, Miss Elizabeth Howell, county school nurse, and Mrs. Pansy Smith were appointed to a committee to investigate the lunch needs of underprivileged children for the current school term.

Principal D. D. Caudill reported that Mrs. J. R. York was organizing a first-aid class for girls at the high school in accordance with the national defense program and asked the P-T-A to assist the county school board in the purchase of standard equipment for a first-aid room which must be established in order for members of the class to receive school credit.

The sum of $25 was voted for first-aid equipment and Mrs. York and Miss Howell were placed on a committee to supervise the purchase. Girls taking the first-aid course will act as attendants at the first-aid room.

It was voted to make a final $50 payment on the school piano purchased last year. Carmen Salazar, local member of the School Board, asked P-T-A members to support the county-wide school improvement program by voting affirmatively on the $600,000 bond issue in November.

Mrs. E. G. Kilpatrick, financial chairman, was placed in charge of concessions at the school's annual Halloween Carnival, which P-T-A again sponsors this month.

An Unusual Day IN AMERICAN HISTORY!

NEXT
Wednesday, October 16th

In these days of a troubled world, let's do everything in our power to assist our government in preparing for any eventualities. Next Wednesday, let's do all we can to see that the work of registration is carried out with the least possible inconvenience to those who register and those who are volunteering their time as registrars.

Receipts Of Road Dept. Are Up

Road department receipts have been boosted by approximately $2,250,000 a year through retirement of county road and bridge bonds and the attendant transfer from county dispensing hands of revenue previously used to pay bonded debt.

Under the state law allocating three cents of the seven cent tax to counties, 18 counties have paid road and bridge bond debt in full. They are: Calhoun, Duval, Dixie, Franklin, Gadsden, Gilchrist, Gulf, Hamilton, Hendry, Hillsborough, Holmes, Jackson, Lafayette, Liberty, Madison, Santa Rosa, Wakulla and Washington.

With exception of Lafayette county, all money previously received by these counties under this allocation now goes to the state road department for construction of roads and bridges in the counties. Lafayette, having paid all of its road and bridge debt recently, comes under the 1939 act which gives the county 20 percent of the three cent portion of gas tax money. This may be used for general county purposes. The road department gets 80 percent for use in road construction in the county.

Florida leads the entire nation for population gain during the last decade, with an increase of 27.9 percent. Next nearest was New Mexico with 24.9, while California was third with 21.1.

The American Legion

Editor's Note: The following editorial, written by Sherman W. Needham, editor and publisher of the Ames Millport, a weekly, was the 1940 winner of the annual Iowa American Legion editorial contest open to all Iowa newspapers.

From the travail of a war-weary world on whose altar had been laid the sacrifice of ten millions of men, the American Legion was born. The high purpose of their resolve was that "for God and Country" they banded together to cement the friendships, the camaraderie, the bivouacs of danger and the love of country into a workable and understanding group.

It was in solemn convocation that the men of the A. E. F. gathered to form an organization that would bind and hold the groups that had fought to "make the world safe for democracy."

Thus was born the American Legion. Ours the shoulder of these younger men who throw the mantle that was being dropped from off the bowed and weary shoulders of the Old Guard Army of the Republic and from that other noble group who had fought as bravely and courageously, the United Confederate Veterans. In union there is strength and for the battles of peace they resolved to join hearts and hands to fight the good fight for American liberty, to help the disabled.

Today, when the world is being shaken on and on, their voice is still raised. For years they have urged adequate national defense.

Universal service has been projected since 1922; antagonism to the existence of subversive influences now projected into every state of this union is not new to the Legion; America, sleeping like Rip Van Winkle, in a world afar, the Legion tried to arouse the people to get prepared.

It is a critical time. Widely divergent interests, an heterogeneous element with diverse backgrounds make an intricate, citizenry and problems. There is still room for the simple faith of liberty and we should heed their call and their advice. The torches that fell from the grasp of the thousands who

F. E. Bryant, president of the Florida Sugar & Food Products Company, which has a plantation and mill at Canal Point, wouldn't say what it was but he declared on Wednesday that he and his associates were working up an important new development.

After a period of excellence the mail service on the lake has gone bad again. The boat, Bay Isle, came in so late 3 nights this week that the incoming mail was not put up until the next morning.

As the late Gov. State Kendall is crippled, and the widows and orphans who needed aid and succor.

The millions of men who served here and abroad, with the fire of eternal youth wrote that marvelous document of cementing friendship. Years hence their work will still go on; their advice will be as eagerly sought and their service to their country as generously given as when they donned the khaki of 1917-1918.

Today, when the world is being shaken on and on, their voice is still raised. For years they have urged adequate national defense. Universal service has been projected since 1922; antagonism to the existence of subversive influences now projected into every state of this union is not new to the Legion; America, sleeping like Rip Van Winkle, in a world afar, the Legion tried to arouse the people to get prepared.

"I get Double Range Anti-Knock!"

Every motorist knows that there are two important ranges of acceleration where highest anti-knock performance is needed. For example, you need knockless power at 10 to 45 miles per hour for acceleration in traffic and 45 to 90 miles per hour for passing other cars and climbing hills. Some gasolines may give high anti-knock in one range but not in the other. But the new Sinclair H-C combines high anti-knock performance in both ranges.

With the Double-Range anti-knock in H-C you also get other remarkable qualities in performance. You get quick starting—rapid pick-up—smooth power—and long mileage.

Try a complete tankful of the new Double-Range H-C in your car today. Your nearby Sinclair dealer sells it at regular price. You will find it adds to the pleasure of driving and helps reduce motoring expense as well! Ask for the new Sinclair H-C.

New SINCLAIR H-C

For performance, no gasoline at regular price is superior to the new Sinclair H-C.
